

Odlaug Succeeds Darland As Biology Department Head

A winner of a Muellhaupt fellowship at Ohio State university, Dr. Theron Odlaug, has been appointed head of the biology department of the University of Minnesota, Duluth Branch, according to Dr. Raymond W. Darland, provost.

Dr. Odlaug, a native of Stanley, Wis., has been a member of the UMD faculty since Duluth State Teachers college days.

As full head of the department, Dr. Odlaug succeeds Dr. Darland, who had the position until July, 1952, when Dr. Darland was appointed UMD's academic dean. Dr. Mark M. Keith, associate professor of biology, has been acting head in the interim.

Dr. Odlaug was on sabbatical leave from UMD in the academic year 1952-53 for research in parasitology under the Muellhaupt fellowship at Ohio State. The Muellhaupt is one of the coveted awards in science research.

A former student at Eau Claire, Wis., high school and a graduate of Mason City, Ia., high school in 1929, Dr. Odlaug received the bachelor's degree from Luther college, Decorah, Ia., in 1923.

He received the master of science degree in 1935 and the doctor of philosophy degree in 1940 from New York university, both in parasitology.

His research includes studies of the life histories of parasites on mammals and amphibians, the physiology and parasites of shellfish and the parasites of Minnesota vertebrates. He spent two summers at the Marine biological station, Woods Hole, Mass., for research in parasitology and physiology.

Dr. Odlaug is a member of the American Microscopical society, the American Society of Parasitologists and the Minnesota Academy of Science. He also is adviser of Mu Delta Pi, UMD pre-medical fraternity, and is a member of the UMD faculty curriculum committee.

He has taught biology at New York City college during summer sessions, Billings, Mont., Polytechnic Institute and Peru, Nebr., State Teachers college.

From 1943 to 1945 he was aquatic biologist with the U. S. fish and wildlife service, Gig Harbor, Wash., and College Park, Md. He came to DSTC in 1945 as associate professor of zoology, and in 1952 he became full professor of zoology.

Anderson Sno-King For '54

It took four judges to choose the longest and fullest beard grown by male members of UMD for the annual Sno-King competition this year.

George Anderson was finally selected at the square dance Tuesday evening, as the person deserving the $10 prize money and the honor of crowning the Sno-Queen at the Variety show last night.

This year's Queen (not known at the time of this publication) was elected by popular vote of the student body rather than being chosen by the governor as in years past.

The six candidates were entertained yesterday by the Chamber of Commerce with Governor C. Elmer Anderson the special guest.

The field of some 20 beard growers was narrowed down to six by judges Robert Falk, Dr. and Mrs. P. Hofslund and Mr. Ward Wells. The audience was then asked to pick the best two beards and they chose George Anderson and Rod Spearin as runner-up.

Ward Wells and his recreation class took charge of the square dance this year and all of the country settings were present.

George Anderson succeeds Claude Whitney as the king to reign over the remaining Sno-Week activities.

Sno-Ball Left For Today, Ends Week

Although the snow arrived too late to fit into the skiing plans for the Lutsen-goers, it will help to carry out the "Winter Wonderland" theme of this year's annual Sno-Ball.

As per usual the dance this year will be semi-formal and the no corsage ban is in effect. Dick Finch, who appeared at the Homecoming dance last year at the Southern Branch, is providing the music for the occasion.

Contrary to previous announcements, the Sno-Ball will be held in the Hotel Duluth ballroom rather than the girls' gymnasium in the Phy Ed building.

The sophomore class is sponsoring the dance with Jerry Nelson chairman and Barb Laibl in charge of decorations. Ralph Miller is sophomore class president.

Junior Hockey Tourney Tickets Available

UMD students and faculty remembering the jam-packed, thrill-ridden crowds that attended last year's first annual Duluth International Invitational Junior Hockey tournament may avail themselves of a special opportunity to get advance tickets for the second annual event scheduled March 13-14, according to UMD hockey coach Gordy Eddolls.

The two finalists from 1953, defending champion Quebec City, Que., and Regina, Sask.

Other teams will be Noranda, Que., a Canadian hockey hotbed; St. Boniface, Man., a perennial threat; Fort William, Ont.; International Falls, Minn.; Marquette, Mich., and Duluth. An all-star team of Duluth high school seniors will represent the Zenith City.

Reserved seats at $5 for all seven games, in choice locations, Coventry, 2-2320. Mrs. Coventry reports tickets are going fast.

Chamberlin Named Academic Dean; Fills Vacant Post

Dr. Thomas Wilson Chamberlin, head of the geography department since 1947, has been appointed academic dean of the University of Minnesota, Duluth Branch, it was announced in Minneapolis.

The announcement followed approval of the major appointment by the university board of regents at a regular session in Minneapolis today. The appointment is effective March 1.

UMD has been without an academic dean since September, 1953, when Dr. Raymond W. Darland, then dean, was appointed provost to succeed Dr. John E. King. Dr. King left UMD to become president of Kansas State Teachers college at Emporia.

Dr. J. L. Morrill, University president, and Dr. Darland today concurred in the opinion that Dr. Chamberlin will bring to the academic deanship "exceptional qualities of scholarship, research and administrative ability."

A native of Gays, Ill., Dr. Chamberlin graduated from Eastern Illinois State Teachers College High school, Charleston, Ill., in 1932. He later received the bachelor of education degree with a major in geography from Eastern Illinois State Teachers college.

He received the master of arts and the doctor of philosophy degrees in geography from Clark university, Worcester, Mass., in 1937 and 1946, respectively.

At EISTC, Dr. Chamberlin won the Livingston C. Lord scholarship and was awarded membership in two honorary fraternities, Kappa Delta Pi (education) and Gamma Theta Upsilon (geography).

Lutsen Sno-Caravan Rated Success By Sixty-six UMD Ski Enthusiasts

Sixty-six skiers got a taste of skiing comparable to that done at Sun Valley last Friday when the Sno-Caravan traveled up the North Shore to the famous Lutsen ski resort.

The two bus loads of Sno-Weekers skied in shirt sleeves in the unseasonable warm weather, and by the end of the three-hour session it was hard to tell the veterans from the amateurs.

Following an afternoon on the ski slopes, the UMD voyagers feasted on a chicken or trout supper that left all the outdoorsmen satisfied.

Dancing, singing, movies and general loafing rounded out the evening and left all of those participating in this event, the first of its kind, waiting anxiously for next year.

At midnight the busses headed for Duluth and the Dawn Yawn. The skiers, tired by now, danced to phonograph music in the cafeteria. Around breakfast time pancakes and sausages were available to all who wanted them for 60 cents.

The eventful day ended for most students anywhere from 5 to 8:30 a. m.

Monday the Sno-Caravan braved the snowstorm and ventured down to the Hamline game. Although the Bulldogs came out on the short end of the scoring column most fans had a good time and enjoyed the Hamline hospitality during the game and the dance that followed.

Injuries Mar Record; Athletic Prestige Grows

UMD's basketball season is over for another year and our school is a step closer than last year and many steps closer than past years to a position that it has been striving for since admittance to the MIAC, a position which will gain the respect and fear of some of the stronger athletic units in the league, and a position that will not give up once obtained, but will fight to attain.

Many people thought that this would be our big year, and it was in some respects. In the new athletic building the Bulldogs would not be beaten, and only after an accumulation of bad breaks—and they could be termed nothing else—did the home fans see their team in defeat. But that didn't cause a lack of enthusiasm with the fans. They had given the team their full support in a spirit that is needed for a school that is to be alive.

On the other hand the players brought good sportsmanship wherever they traveled and in their capacities of representatives to UMD were a pride to the school.

With graduation losses of players will result, losses that will be felt sharply, but with continued enthusiasm and spirit on the part of the fans and players, we will continue to move forward.

SAI Gives Honorary Award

"Der Rosenkavalier," "Rigoletto" and other operas have won her an international name. She has won plaudits for "the sparkling brilliance of her voice and her polished musicianship."

"The distinction of making Miss Lipp an honorary member of our fraternity is one we shall long cherish," Mary Nichols, president of the UMD chapter, notes. Mrs. Willis Putman, one of the founding patronesses of the UMD chapter, assisted in the event.

Attending the ceremony were alumni, patroness and active members of the chapter.

Wilma Lipp, coloratura soprano, has been made an honorary member of Sigma Alpha Iota, honorary music fraternity, by the UMD SAI chapter.

The membership was conferred when Miss Lipp appeared in a concert in Duluth accompanied by Arpad Sandor, renowned pianist and coach who has served as guest artist in residence on the UMD campus.

Vienna-born Miss Lipp has been singing in opera since 1945, being a regular member of the Vienna opera company since that year.

Cafeteria Food Problems Lighter Since Mrs. Schroeder Arrived

For Mrs. Marion Schroeder, who served as assistant manager in a defense plant cafeteria serving 28,000 meals a day, planning in the UMD cafeteria is a drop in the bucket.

Manager of the cafeteria since October, Mrs. Schroeder has an interesting background as cateress in many large hotels and private clubs. She enjoys working with food very much, but it is planning for parties and working with fancy foods that offer a special lure to her. "One reason for this," Mrs. Schroeder explains, "is that on such occasions everyone is in a festive and appreciative mood and are less apt to complain. The hours are not as desirable, though, since I had to be on call at all hours."

On her last job as food manager in a large hotel, more than 1,000 persons could be seated in one dining room alone, with more than one turnover in an evening. Waitresses for such special occasions as banquets and parties would understandably be a problem, but caterers make use of a pool of banquet girls in addition to their well-trained nucleus staffs.

In UMD's cafeteria, Mrs. Schroeder has a staff of nine full-time employees (two cooks), four part-time employees and five part-time student workers. Many of the employees have been here for many years. When planning menus, at least two entrees are included in each meal so that a student may choose between a better cut or a cheaper meat. The dinner checks average between 80 cents and 85 cents and luncheons average 25 cents. All items, i.e., coffee, ice cream, etc., are computed in this average. Food items will follow student preference polls in the future, although most items recently polled favorably are already being served.

Looking to economy for both the student and management, Mrs. Schroeder has been consulting with representatives of packing houses on prefabricated meats—new cuts which eliminate all wastes. These prove to be tasty as well as in a good price range. Another desirable plan would be to make greater use of the small dining room for private groups such as sorority or faculty dinners. Three luncheons and three larger dinners a week would relieve labor costs tremendously.

"The basic jobs of a food manager," stated the busy woman, between phone calls and other business interruptions, "is in knowing the foods that go well together and organization. It is no more difficult to handle 1,000 dinners than 100; the trick is in knowing how to organize your help."

Mrs. Schroeder, cafeteria manager, in her familiar position behind the survey machine accepts the price of a dish of ice cream from a student, while another gazes patiently at her tray of food.

RATING SYSTEM

|----------------|---------------|
| * Excellent |  Very Good |
|  Good | * Average |

A happy combination of a polished performer and a receptive audience made Tuesday's convo one of the best of the year.

The auditorium lost much of its usual barn-like appearance with the near capacity crowd that turned out to enjoy magician Russ Charles. Mostly students, rather than the common crop of faculty members and outsiders, the onlookers enjoyed themselves wholeheartedly signifying success for another Sno-Week activity.

Depending mostly on surprise and the embarrassment of participants for his laughs, Charles performed all of the standard magician tricks with a snap that kept the audience guessing.

After a series of lectures that were full of content but thin on laughs and pure entertainment value, this convo was a welcome change to many students. At this event the laughs came first and foremost as they should, and students could leave their inquiring minds and thirst for knowledge at the threshold.

A steady stream of elusive scarves, full-empty cans, disappearing glasses, bottles and birds and a very full hat kept the show moving. Extemporaneous remarks from Lab school children who assisted in counting and otherwise playing up the act, drew bursts of laughter. Charles proved to be a showman deluxe but the climax was reached with comments and grimaces of a Lab school red-head and his friend.

As the first convo of the year dedicated strictly to entertainment, this program was a great success. I only hope that later and more serious programs can draw as large and as interested an audience.

Von Zahn Scheduled For Convo Return

A former war correspondent who is now the Washington correspondent for the largest German radio network will be heard at UMD on Thursday, March 4. Peter von Zahn, whose comments from Washington are broadcast to some five million German listeners, will speak in Main auditorium on "What You Can Expect From Germany." His talk is scheduled for 11 a.m.

German-born van Zahn has played an active part in the reconstruction of Germany since the end of World War II. A correspondent with the German army in Russia, he turned himself over to British troops as a prisoner of war when the Third Reich fell. The English soon enlisted his help in developing radio communications with the German people. At that time, the Hamburg station was under the military government. Von Zahn was called on to help convert it into a German station. From this beginning, he helped develop the Northwest German Radio corporation, which has studios in Hamburg, Cologne, Hanover and Berlin and reached more listeners than any other German network.

Following his work with the British, von Zahn was invited to this country by the Department of State and Defense. He was asked to co-operate in a study of certain aspects of American rearmament and troop training. This period of work in the United States led to his decision to stay here for a longer period, reporting back to Germany on American policies and activities. He speaks to his German listeners three times weekly from the nation's capitol.

Peter von Zahn's lecture here is a part of a tour arranged by the Convert, Theatre and Lecture Service of the University of Minnesota. He was heard in this area earlier in the year as a member of The World Affairs council, a panel which toured under the same sponsorship.

Finals A Snap If You Just Use 'System'

By WILL SWENEY

Psychology? Sure, I've taken it. No kidding, you think it is hard? Evidently you just don't know the system, for once you have learned it, you won't have any trouble with it any more. Do you have a copy of the test with you? Swell. Here's the system.

First of all you have to remember that scientists are very tricky. If they can find a hard word to substitute for an easy one, they will do it; and in naming things, they very often combine two words in such a way as to obscure both meanings. That is the theory of the system: just break the words that you have to define into two parts, and then use your keen, logical mind to discover the words that the scientist is trying to hide.

Let's look over the test, so I can illustrate.

Free Association: the answer to this is obvious, of course. The prof must have thrown it in to give you a sense of false security. It is an association, of course, that you don't have to pay any dues, to be a member.

Claustrophobia: this is too well known to even bother the mind with. Spring fever, you say, or a reluctance to attend classes.

Dypsomania: this one is a little bit harder. Wait, I think I've got it now. A dip is a person that picks pockets; and mania as in Pennsylvania. Therefore all you have to do is combine them to discover that a dypsomaniac is a pickpocket from Pennsylvania.

Paranoid: Let's see now. Pair and noid. Hah. Obviously a person with a pair of adenoids. There's really nothing to it, of course, if you use the system.

Rationalization: the system of rationing things, as they did during the war.

Compensation: naturally this is what a person gets for not working. Probably used to define a lazy or disabled man.

That is the system. So you see, friend, Psychology isn't really difficult at all. They're not so clever. All you need is a keen, logical mind. Outwit them, that's the only way.

What did I get in the course, did you say? Well, I can't really understand that. He gave me an F. That doesn't prove that the system is wrong, it only proves that the prof had it in for me, and being jealous of my sharp intelligence, he failed me out of pure spite.

UMD Musicians Appear In Recital

Six University of Minnesota, Duluth Branch, music students will appear in a recital at 4 p.m. Sunday (Feb. 28) in Tweed hall, Twenty-third avenue east and Fifth street.

The recitalists will appear under auspices of the UMD department of music, division of humanities.

John Hussey, Duluth, trombonist, accompanied by Joel Critzer, Cloquet, will play George Frederick McKay's Sonata for Trombone and Piano in three movements and Marcel

Poot's "Impromptu pour Trombone et Piano."

Kenneth Miller, Duluth, trumpeter, accompanied by Carole Benkosky, Duluth, will play E. Bozza's "Concertino pour Trompette et Piano" in three movements, and Maurice Emmanuel's "Sonate pour Cornet et Piano" in four movements.

Ronald Richardson, Sioux Falls, S. D., French hornist, accompanied by Ann Carlson, Austin, Minn., will play Richard Strauss' Concerto for French Horn, opus 11, in three movements.

Foundation Sponsors Pancake Supper

Aunt Jemima's pancakes were put to shame last Thursday, Feb. 25, when the Wesley Foundation sponsored a Pancake supper at the Endion Methodist church as a part of the UMD Sno-Week events. Students had a chance to eat their fill from 5 to 7 p. m. for the price of 75 cents.

The event was arranged in cooperation with the Endion church Men's club. Co-chairman for the supper were Mr. Robert Reed of the Men's club and Bill Griffith from Wesley Foundation. Proceeds will be used for the Methodist student fellowship fund projects.

Campus Yarns by Will Sweeney

With the return of winter came the return of the spirit of Sno-Week. All kinds of spirits, judging from the Lutsen trip. "It was great," according to one of the students that made the trip, and that seemed to be the general consensus of opinion. A terrific success that will undoubtedly become a traditional feature of the UMD Sno-Week celebration.

We have it all over on our brothers from the Southern Branch. They also have a yearly snow train, and every year there is at least one broken bone. We came up with only a few very minor injuries—one lad scratched his face up a little bit; one girl burned her fingers on the tow-rope; another broke both of his skis; and Colonel LaBarre was knocked over by a misguided shoosh expert. All in all, very good. The management at Lutsen even invited UMD to come back as soon as they could.

The Dawn Yawn turned out to be a yawning triumph of fun over sleepiness. Almost a hundred people showed up during the morning, some of them no worse for the wear.

The queen contest very hot and heavy this week. The hall of Main looks like the main street of Chicago after a big parade, all strewn with confetti. Beards coming off soon, and

The Hamline trip turned out quite well, the only damper being the fact that we lost.

Tonight the grand finale, the Sno-Ball. With a very pretty queen, a very black-bearded king and a memory of a fine time, UMDites will dance away the last few hours of 1954's Sno-Week.

* * *

Should give a word of congratulation to UMD's new swimming coach (at least introduced as such at the last meet), OSPS's own Mr. Archer. UMD aqua fans will be very happy to know that UMD placed third. Only three teams competed, but even at that we should be happy that we have entered a new field of competition.

* * *

Several people from the Science building have asked me to suggest that the coffee bar up there be kept open all afternoon instead of closing at two-thirty. The request seems reasonable, for judging by the crowd of students and teachers in the main cafeteria during the afternoon, it would be profitable enough to be justified.

* * *

Hash: wonder what the juniors are planning for the prom. Have heard the names of some of the bands that they have been negotiating with, and they are the best dance bands in the country, so the music is bound to be topnotch . . . brotherhood week is a very wonderful tradition, but actually it seems to me to be rather unnecessary, as brotherhood is one of the basic principles of Christianity, to be followed at all times . . . wonder why students from the Science building always walk all the way around Torrance to get to the cafeteria, when it would be just as easy to enter through the back door. Perhaps it's because there is a sign on the front door that says to enter from the back.

UMD Graduate Receives Top Award For Foreign Study In International Law

A 1950 UMD pre-law graduate who was graduated from the Harvard school of law last June has won a top fellowship award for foreign study in international law.

Richard Gracing, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Graving, 408 Lakeview avenue, is one of two U. S. law students chosen in a co-operative program with the government of Chile for a year's study in the South American country.

The UMD graduate was first chosen one of five students selected by the state department from applicants throughout the country. Chilean officials made the final choice from the list of five.

Now in army radar training at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., Mr. Graving recently passed the Minnesota bar examination to practice law in Minnesota.

Although unable to take advantage of the fellowship opportunities at present, he expects to resume his study of international law upon completion of his present army service.

While at UMD, Mr. Graving was chosen as a U of M representative on a SPAN trip to Colombia. Thus he has developed some first-hand background on South American affairs.

Under terms of the fellowship, the American government pays travel expenses to and from Chile, while the host country pays tuition and maintenance expenses for study at the University of Chile.

The awards are made annually under the Convention for the Promotion of Inter-American Cultural Relations. The convention awards are part of the U. S. exchange program.

As a holder of a convention fellowship, the Duluthian will be "expected to make every possible effort to promote Inter-American cultural relations," in addition to carrying on research into international law.

Colonel LaBarre To Attend Alabama Conferences

Lt. Col. Louis J. LaBarre, UMD, will be among more than 200 professors of air science and tactics from colleges and universities across the country and in Hawaii and Puerto Rico attending a four-day conference on Air Force ROTC at Montgomery, Ala., March 7 through 11. Montgomery is headquarters for the Air Force ROTC.

Purpose of the conference, according to Brig. Gen. M. K. Deichmann, commandant of the Air Force ROTC, is to review present and future aspects of the Air Force ROTC program in relation to national defense and citizenship training.

The conferees also will discuss policies and procedures relative to selection, education and motivation of cadets and will attend briefings by the air defense command, strategic air command, tactical air command, and the flying training air force.

General Nathan F. Twining, air force chief of staff; Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, U. S. army (ret), who recently wrote and published "Wings for Peace"; Col. James K. Dowling, public information division, Headquarters USAF; and Dr. Lloyd Humphreys, director of the personnel research laboratory at Lackland Air Force base, will be among speakers.

Pucksters Win Eighth; Defeat Gusties, 5-3

The UMD hockey team took over first place in the MIAC by a two-point margin, but it took a three-goal rally in the final period to defeat an up-and-coming Gustavus sextet, 5-3. The win was the Eddollsmen's eighth in conference play as against one loss. Second-place St. Thomas has a 7-1 won-lost slate.

The Gusties penetrated the UMD defense for three goals in the first period as 916 fans watched on at the Curling club.

Iverson Scores Win In Central Meet

Ivan Iverson, former UMD ski team member, captured both the slalom and downhill last weekend at the Central U. S. Ski association meet at Mont du Lac. Iverson finished the downhill runs in times of 33.6 and 32.5 seconds and the slalom in 48.9 and 44.6.

Two present Bulldog slabsters, Gordy Slotness and Carl Schramm, finished second and third in the downhill, respectively, Slotness touring the course in times of 34.3 and 32.6. Schramm's times were 35.7 and 33.7.

Schramm finished with times of 63.6 and 49.4 in the slalom while Slotness missed a flush during his first run and was disqualified.

Schramm was fifth in the men's combined and Paul Schmidt, also a member of the UMD ski team, was sixth.

In the women's slalom, Ann Fedvedt, freshman from Fergus Falls, was fourth. Her times were 80.3 and 56.1. Miss Fedvedt finished sixth in the downhill and fourth in the women's combined.

Former DSTC Grad Named Backfield Coach at MSC

Dan Devine, a graduate of Duluth State Teachers' college, was recently appointed backfield coach of Michigan State by head coach Hugh Daugherty. Devine starred for the Bulldogs in football, basketball, tennis and track. He captained the football and basketball teams and was also president of the junoir and senior classes.

Devine first coached at East Jordan, Michigan, high school where his gridiron teams were undefeated and won championship laurels in both football and basketball.

From there Devine moved up to assistant freshman coach at Michigan State in 1950. He coached the Spartan junior varsity in 1951 and last year he was freshman coach.

Tom Zweiner, the Gusties' football star, tallied two of the goals to send his mates into a 3-0 lead. Frank Johnson, on an assist from Alex Sisto, tallied UMD's first goal at 10:34 of the free-first period.

The Bulldogs made it 3-2 at the end of the second period when Al Peterson scored on a solo at 14:07.

Then came the final stanza which was also marked by a free-for-all in the closing minutes. The Bulldogs pulled into a 3-3 tie at 5:53 on Johnson's unassisted tally and went into a 4-3 advantage at 7:34 on another Johnson goal, this time on an assist from Sisto. Only 31 seconds remained when Sisto, assisted by Howard Wallene, rifled the final goal into the Gustie nets.

Ron Sjoberg, UMD wing, and Harvey Davis started the brawl which developed into fisticuffs before the officials banished Sjoberg and Davis from the game for major-fighting.

Duane Johnson, Bulldog goalie, made 15 saves and Glen Maustin, the Gustie net-tender, made 31, 26 of them in the second and third periods.

Eddollsmen, Toms Split Series

The UMD and St. Thomas hockey teams remained in a deadlock for first place in the MIAC puck race after dividing a two-game series at the Duluth Curling Club. The Bulldogs won the Friday encounter, 4-3, while the Tommies roared back to cop the Saturday game, 4-2.

Cagers Drop Seventh To Johnnies, 84-74

The Bulldogs dropped their seventh tilt of the MIAC season last Saturday as St. John's whipped the Maroon and Gold, 84-74. The two clubs split during the season, UMD having defeated the Johnnies at home.

The Johnnies, paced by Bill Sexton, the second highest scorer in the conference, led throughout most of the fray. Sexton tallied 22 points from his forward slot.

Center John McKeag spearheaded the UMD attack with 24 points on seven field goals and 10 charity tosses. Mel Koivisto contributed 15 and Bruce Paulson 10.

First Game

Frank Hopappa, first line defenseman, flicked in two goals, the second proving the margin of victory at 12:44 of the final period as UMD snapped a 17-game St. Thomas winning streak. The game was played before a crowd of 1,308.

Sports On Parade

by Arne Moilanen

Now that the basketball and hockey seasons are over, the sports picture will hit a drought, so to speak. Next on the athletic agenda are golf, tennis and track, all of which will get underway in a month or so.

as only three players will graduate. They are Capt. Chuck Hiti, John McKeag and Mark Vukelich. Returning will be Bob McDonald, Mel Koivisto, Bob Seikkula, Tom Richardson, John Ferkul, Bruce Paulson, Dick Veech, Tom Stark and Ed Pajunen.

Next year's squad will also be augmented by several players from the freshman squad, including Sam Perralla, Mike Bjellos, Tom Bjirkman, Lee Baker and Darrell Warner, the junior varsity starters. Things look good for next season.

It was unfortunate that the unexpected thaw caused the cancellation of a number of hockey games downstate. As it is now, the same situation will probably occur as did last year—the forfeiture of a number of games. Since this situation has occurred twice, we should think that the conference officials could arrange the league schedule so as to avoid another early-winter thaw.

The most obvious solution is to start the loop slate sometime in December.

The District 26 high school basketball tournament will get underway Monday at the UMD gymnasium. For the first time in District 26 tourney history, the prepsters will have a good gym in which to play and for the first time, too, the fans will be satisfied with their seats. There isn't a bad one in the house.

Our pick for the District 26 champion—either Denfeld, Central, Cloquet or Esko.

Bulldogs Win Finale; Beat Superior State

The UMD Bulldogs made it two in a row over Superior State Teachers Wednesday with a 70-64 victory on the Yellowjackets' court in the Maroon and Gold's season finale. UMD wound up with an overall record of 15 wins and 10 losses and a slate of 8-8 in conference play.

The Bulldogs took the lead, 14-12, at the quarter mark as both clubs suffered from lapses of bad ball-handling. Superior

State outscored UMD in the second quarter to pull into a 34-34 tie at the intermission.

Bob McDonald, who paced the scorers with 18 points, found his shooting eye in the opening minutes of the third quarter to lead his mates on a nine-point spree that gave UMD a 43-34 advantage.

The cross-bay rivals battled back to trail by 51-46 at the three-quarter mark.

The Bulldogs opened the fourth period with another scoring spree that led to a 57-46 lead which UMD retained for the remainder of the contest. The Yellowjackets staged a mild rally in the final minutes to chop the lead to the final six-point margin.

The Maroon and Gold outscored State from the floor, 25-17, but the Yellowjackets had the better of it from the charity line, sinking 30 free throws while UMD converted 20. UMD was guilty of 27 infractions.

Guard Mel Koivisto took ill before game-time and did not see any action.

Capt. Chuck Hiti ended his collegiate career with a 14-point output to wind up the season with a total of 433 counters in 25 games. Hiti surpassed his last year's total of 422, but failed to wipe out the individual scoring record still held by Rudy Monson. Monson tallied 456 points in 1950.

Jerry Wilmut, who saw considerable action at a sentinel post, garnered 12 points. Bob Seikkula hit for 10.

Pacing the Superior attack were Jack Hulmer with 16 and Tom Ward and Patritto, a dozen each.
